

Carlos Alarco - Associate Director, Education Abroad

Carlos Alarco is currently the Associate Director for Education Abroad at Utah Valley University. He has been involved with the Women of the Mountains and Utah International Mountain Forum organizations since 2010 and has served in other capacities as well as website administrator for the Women of the Mountains website (www.womenofthemountains.org). In December of 2013 he was part of a delegation from UVU to visit the United Nations in New York to take part in the Sixth session of the Open Working Group Meeting on Sustainable Development Goals. In 2019 he spoke at the 68th United Nations Civil Society Conference at part of a panel discussion hosted by the Utah International Mountain Forum on Student Engaged Learning to Advocate for Mountains. He is an advocate for education for all, especially women in mountainous regions, and is a strong believer of the power that education has to transform lives. He also is an advocate for action to combat Climate Change and has been a part of organizations both in Utah and abroad to raise awareness of this issue. Carlos holds a Bachelor of Science in Digital Media and a MEd in Information Science and Learning Technologies. A true Global Citizen, he was born in Lima, Peru, grew up in Sydney, Australia and currently resides in Utah, USA.

Carlos Alarco was born in Lima, Peru, grew up in Sydney, Australia and now lives in Utah. He has over 15 years of experience using technology in education in the public and private sector.

He has worked for both The University of Utah and Utah Valley University and has a master's degree in Learning Technology. Carlos has been involved in many organizations that are affiliated with the United Nations and has visited their New York Headquarters in 2013. He enjoys hiking and traveling.